

Any attempt to limit the abilities of innovative service providers like XM to offer information to the public in favor of large conglomerates is a very dangerous proposition. In fact, our government should encourage and commend XM for offering a low price, quality service that clearly focuses on providing balanced content.

I hope you make the right decision and reject the frivolous contentions of the mega-media providers.

Thank you.

DW